THE WORLD LEADER IN DISC SPORTS

THE HISTORY OF BHMO

For three decades, the Brent Hambrick Memorial Open has been one of the premier disc golf events in the Midwest. Hosted at the course that bears Brent's name along Hoover Reservoir in northeast Columbus, the event has welcomed many of the sport's top professionals while helping shape the growth of competitive disc golf in Ohio.

WHO WAS BRENT HAMBRICK

PDGA #2797, Brent Hambrick was one of the most influential figures in the early development of professional disc golf. A competitor, organizer, promoter, and advocate for the sport, Brent helped establish standards that are commonplace today, including elevated tournament production, live scoring initiatives, dedicated spotters, and enhanced player experiences.

His passion for disc golf extended far beyond competition and helped inspire a generation of players, volunteers, and tournament directors.

THE LEGACY CONTINUES

The Brent Hambrick Memorial Open serves as both a celebration of elite competition and a tribute to the lasting impact Brent had on the sport. Each year, players from across North America travel to Columbus to compete on one of Ohio's most recognizable courses and continue a tradition that has become a cornerstone of Midwest disc golf.

Brent's influence lives on through the course, the event, and the countless people whose experiences in disc golf were shaped by his vision and dedication.

A TRADITION CONTINUES

From its early days to becoming a PDGA A-Tier event, BHMO has continued to grow while staying true to the spirit Brent helped build.
